

Brief History Of Education And Training Development In Vietnam And Recommendations For Period From 2021 To 2025.

- Author(s): That Van Vo
- Abstract: Education development has always been an important driving force for industrialization and modernization, a condition for promoting human resources, a fundamental factor for social development and economic growth. Human resource is the human resource of a country or a territory, a part of the resources, capable of mobilizing and organizing to participate in economic development society. After nearly six years of implementing the Resolution, our country's cause of education and training has made fundamental changes in quality and effectiveness, recognized and appreciated by world educational organizations. Besides, education and training have always been considered the top national policy, the cause of the Party, State, and people. Investment in education is a development investment, given priority in socio-economic development programs and plans. The year 2021-2022 is also the academic year that the whole education sector continues to perform dual tasks. While actively implementing solutions to prevent and control the complicated Covid-19 epidemic, ensuring safe schools while trying their best to overcome difficulties to complete the school year's tasks, meet the requirements of innovation and ensure the quality of education and training. Therefore, The objective of the article is to analyze the current situation of the education sector in recent years and propose recommendations to contribute to the development of education and training in the coming time.
- Keywords: Education, training, development, Vietnam, and SGU.