

The Impact of Coronavirus-Pandemic to the Employees of Oman Airline: A Case study.

- Author(s): Roland Getaruelas
- Abstract: The main objective of this study is to investigate the impact of COVID19 pandemic to the employees in Oman Air company it also examines the degree of seriousness of each impact to every employee. Oman Air company has faced many challenges throughout this pandemic, flights were cancelled, financial status has stumbled, and the entire labor force were reduced. As the company reduces its capacity due to travel restrictions. This pandemic has brought a serious negative effect to the employees specifically their emotional aspect, financial, employment stability and health aspect. This study also explores the degree of seriousness of effect negative effect. Although Oman air company has been working round the clock in order to maintain the versatility of its operation. The various adverse effects to its employees were assess, examine and evaluate its outcome.
- Keywords: Oman Air company, Challenges, emotional aspect, financial, employment stability and health aspect