Sales Information System with Feature for Disability Users.

- Author(s): Aceng wahyudin ,Shuhud noer shobah ,Sami ,Reinaldy Khaidir Sjafii ,Raymond bhalisani salim ,Ari Purno Wahyu W

- Abstract: The sales system is able to improve a purchasing process and record a number of available stock items, the information system has a broad and automatic range, the advantage of using an information system is that the type of catalog of goods provided can be unlimited by place and time, when the webiste feature still made in general and very difficult for someone who has a disability or lack of limbs to use information systems as a medium to increase trade so that someone who has a deficiency can do business in entrepreneurship to improve their standard of living, in this study an e-commerce website will be created with additional features simpler sound and images, this sound system will provide information about the goods being sold even when the user makes a purchase, this feature will clearly provide clear information about the goods catalog and the number of items purchased the addition of this feature is very helpful on the seller and buyer side.