- Abstract: The research tries to highlight one of the most important values that should govern people's relationships with all their categories and races, namely, the value of human brotherhood, which is absent from many of us when we are fanatical about our races, and forgetting the bonds of brotherhood that bind us to every human being in different parts of the world. It also seeks to shed light on the impact of that human brotherhood on people's sense of the suffering of others and to undertake the duty of solidarity with them in all the adversities that befall them, and even to protect them from the dangers that may afflict them, and to cooperate with them in improving the conditions of humanity and changing them for the better.
